WINTER CAMP NEWSPAPER RESUMES PRODUCTION

After 362 days of speculation on who exactly was responsible for the Winter Camp XI newspaper a new publisher has been named. Michael Jon Osvath, most noted for his imitation of a wretch, has replaced Jeff Rand as the head adult adviser for the tabloid. Though no details of the contract between Osvath and Minister of Information Dave Milon were announced, it is expected that Mr. Osvath will stay on as publisher for at least the next issue. The readers of this paper will be happy to know that though there has been a change in publisher, Pulitzer Surprise-winning editor Lee Gardy has agreed to stay on as managing editor. During a conversation with Mr. Gardy, this reporter discovered that despite the change in publisher, no changes in the fine yellow-journalistic style of the paper will take place.

(ED. NOTE- B.B. Biló is a pseudonym for one of the reporters on this year's staff who wishes to keep his praises to a minimum.)

DEATH NOTICES

JERRY CALHOUN - Aged 15 years; shot to death outside the Clearwater latrine around 12:10 a.m. on Monday. No funeral services are expected for Mr. Calhoun.

LEE GARDY - Aged 16 years; shot in the side at 12:25 a.m. Sunday. Eyewitnesses are currently being questioned.

BILL BLAIN - Bombed in his own bed at B.C. Cabin. Though the murder weapon was found, no further investigation has taken place.

FRISBEE ULTIMATE DECLARED TIE

After nearly 30 minutes of hard fought frisbee ultimate, the game was declared a 5-5 tie. The game, of course, was not without its highlights. Standouts for the Howiettes' run-and-gun offense included Lee Gardy(2 goals & 2 assists); team captain John Howey(1 goal & 3 assists); and Roger Horn (1 goal & 2 assists). Highlights for the opposing Bollmen included Chris Macionski and Bill Blain.
